BEARING WITNESS: MEANINGFUL STEPS TOWARD SYSTEMS THAT SUSTAIN YOU

Engaging in sustainable practice requires an understanding of traumatic stress reactions to exposure to others' experiences of suffering. Participants in this course will learn to identify and monitor indicators and symptoms of secondary traumatic stress conditions and their impact on themselves, colleagues, and teams.

Participants will learn to recognize important differences among vicarious trauma, secondary traumatic stress, moral injury/distress, parallel trauma, and burnout and their implications for clinical judgment, patient safety, and job performance.
